

G. O. P. PLEASED WHEN WHEELER GOES WITH BOB

Democrats Are Neither Alarmed Nor Perturbed at Desertion of Senator

LAFOLLETTE FORCE GROWS

East Is Expected to Be Chief Battleground of Presidential Campaigners

New York—National Democratic leaders gathered here, including John W. Davis, the presidential candidate of the party, were neither alarmed nor disturbed Thursday by the announcement that Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana had "bolted" the Democratic ticket and would henceforth walk under the banner of Senator LaFollette on all national issues. The leaders say it was a perfectly natural thing for Senator Wheeler to do for his mind has run along with LaFollette's ever since he entered public life, and his being carried on the records as a Democrat was just about the same as LaFollette being recorded as a Republican.

Republican leaders, including National Chairman Butler, were inclined to be a bit jubilant over the Wheeler announcement and contented it had a distinct bearing on the previous statements that LaFollette would cut as heavily into Democratic ranks as he would into the G. O. P. Of course, the Democrats deny, and they say that when the so-called "Progressive Republicans" in the senate begin to quit the regular Republican ticket and cast their lots with LaFollette the single defection from the Democratic ranks in the upper chamber will be all but forgotten.

REPUBLICANS MAY FOLLOW

Senator Brookhart of Iowa; Norris of Nebraska; Ladd and Frazier of North Dakota, are among those the Democrats expect to declare for LaFollette before the campaign grows much older. The Republicans say that Senator Dill of Washington, a Progressive Democrat, will also go over to LaFollette.

This taunting back and forth between the leaders of the two old parties is likely to go on for some time, but the matter of fact they say the LaFollette forces are developing along the lines expected. He has gained no unexpected strength from any quarter, but on the other hand, has been handicapped quite a bit by the enthusiasm with which he has been taken up by the Socialists. The qualified endorsement of LaFollette by Eugene V. Debs was viewed with evident satisfaction in both Democratic and Republican camps. The "redder" the old party leaders can paint the LaFollette movement the better they will like it.

OLD PARTIES RALLY

They will attempt to show it is merely a rallying place for all the discontented elements of American life, the abolition of the "undesirables" and in this way they hope to hold to Republicanism and Democracy the Progressives who are not willing to associate with the Radicals. The Democrats feel now that the Wheeler activities which went without the scope of the original inquiry can be laid at the door of LaFollette influence.

Meanwhile it is apparent that the leaders of all three parties at present in the field are looking to the east as a greater battle ground than anyone could have expected two weeks ago. Candidate Davis will spend much of his time around New York. President Coolidge will remain in Washington. Mr. Davis probably will make a swing through the west but will not devote any too much time to that task.

The interest of the campaign will lie largely on the east. Even the LaFollette people are talking about making a showing here.

HUBER AND NELSON ENTER STATE RACE

BY Associated Press
Madison—Notwithstanding papers for John M. Nelson, Madison papers for re-election to congress from the Third Wisconsin district, were filed with the secretary of state Friday. Congressman Nelson is campaign manager for Senator Robert LaFollette in the presidential contest. He will devote his time to the national campaign rather than his race for re-election. It is stated.

Henry Huber, Stoughton, filed nomination papers as a candidate for lieutenant governor on the Republican ticket. His petitions included more than 9,000 signatures. Huber is the first of major state candidates to file.

MURDERER PAYS EXTREME PENALTY IN MONTANA JAIL

Bozeman, Mont.—Seth Orrin Danner, convicted murderer of Mrs. John Sproule at Central Park, Mont., in November 1920, paid the death penalty on the gallows of the county jail at 2:19 Friday morning. Danner was pronounced dead four minutes after the trap was sprung. He seemed indifferent to the end.

The execution was witnessed by two priests, a physician, two sheriff's deputies, sixteen residents of Gallatin, and a newspaper man.

Court Slaps Sheriff For Easy Rules

Ashland—Sheriff E. J. Graham was reprimanded in open court Thursday by Judge G. N. Risjord of the circuit court following an announcement that the sheriff allowed prisoners liquor and other privileges. On two occasions, it was stated, the sheriff took Emil Nyberg, a prisoner on a charge of liquor law violations, to Milwaukee and Oshkosh in the Nyberg car. Sm Wiggins, Indian, before the judge for sentence on a burglary charge, told the court he had been given liquor by a "trusty" in the jail and that Sheriff Graham had asked the trusty in his presence to give him a drink.

POLICE SEEK LAST OF CAR BANDIT TRIO

Automobile Used By Girl's Assaulters Bore License Plate Issued in Appleton

By Associated Press
Milwaukee—Police and sheriff's deputies Friday were on the trail of one of three men who late Wednesday night robbed two members of an automobile party, while his companions attacked two girls, and brutally assaulted one of them. The men, giving their names as John Knutowski, 36, and Walter Oleniczak, 28, were in jail here following their arrest and confessions to robbery and assault.

Knutowski and Oleniczak were captured on the outskirts of Austin's woods, a notorious hangout for tramps, late Thursday, as they were seeking to elude detectives sent out from headquarters to arrest Oleniczak, whose photograph has been recognized by the assaulted girl's mother as a likeness to one of her assailants.

The automobile which the bandits used bore a license number which had been issued to the owner of a Chevrolet car in Appleton, but police here have not had any word from Milwaukee authorities about the case. The license plate was on an Oakland car and Milwaukee police believe that the plates were stolen and placed on the Oakland to make detection more difficult.

BAR LAFOLLETTE OFF W. VA. BALLOT

State Election Law Won't Permit Vote for Independent Candidate

Wheeling, W. Va.—West Virginians will not be able to vote for Senator LaFollette for president in the November election, according to an opinion Thursday from the attorney general's office which holds that Mr. LaFollette has not complied with the West Virginia law which requires that certificates of nomination be filed within 20 days after the primary election.

The time limit for such certificates expired June 27 and there is no way for Mr. LaFollette to get his name on the ballots in this state, according to the ruling.

The opinion is expressed that Mr. LaFollette will be barred from the campaign in a number of states for similar reasons.

Mr. LaFollette's supporters had proceeded with organization of clubs among railroad workers and miners in the state and announcement of the ruling is said by politicians to give the campaign an entirely different aspect, since it was believed Mr. LaFollette would cut heavily into the vote of both major parties in the mining sections.

THIEF, BIGAMIST GIVEN 18 MONTHS

Grantsburg—R. E. St. Clair, alias Dr. Robert Frank of San Francisco and Grantsburg, confessed automobile thief and alleged bigamist, has been sentenced to 18 months in the Atlanta Federal penitentiary after a trial in the United States District court at New Orleans according to word received here. St. Clair pleaded guilty to stealing an automobile in Jackson, Minn., and driving to New Orleans.

The man was known here as Dr. Frank and posed as an army medical officer. He came here with his bride, formerly Julia Cedarquist, and visited at the home of the latter's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. John Christopherson last December. Pretty, 17-year-old Marian Christopherson became enamored of him and eloped with him according to authorities who found the girl several months later in San Francisco. She is now back at her home near here.

Dr. Frank is alleged to have had a wife in San Francisco at the time he married Miss Cedarquist there last year.

Varied Scenes From Olympic Games

At the top is an interesting study in expression caught in the box occupied by European notables at the Olympic games. Prince John of England (1) and Edouard Herriot, premier of France (2) are deeply interested in the contests. The Prince of Wales (3) seems to be annoyed at something, while President Domergue of France (4) and Prince Henry of England (5) see something highly amusing. The picture below is a good action shot of the 400 meter race showing Jackson Scholz, who broke the world's record leading. Inset is Le Gendre, making a new world's record in the broad jump. These are the first pictures to arrive from the Olympic games.

MACLAREN PARTY REPORTED SAFE IN RADIO REPORT

Authorities Take Breath of Relief When News Filters In By Wireless

Tokio—The foreign community and Japanese authorities, especially of the air service, took a deep breath of relief Friday when news filtered down by wireless from the Kuriles islands that the MacLaren party of round the world fliers was safe.

The party, headed by A. Stuart MacLaren, hopped off from Lake Tashimoye, on Yotoru island for Paramashiru island last Wednesday. Until a Japanese destroyer coming the rugged coasts of the Kuriles Friday, picked up a wireless report from a commercial steamer that the party had landed on Uruppu island near the starting point of their hop, no word had been received from them, nor as yet has anything concerning the reason for their landing at that point been received.

Two Japanese destroyers spent almost two days searching for them.

While in many quarters it was asserted there was little reason to fear for the fliers' safety as the weather had been good, nevertheless definite information that they were alive and well was very welcome to many here who had interested themselves in the MacLaren party's plucky continuance of the flight regardless of obstacles.

LUMBERMEN MEET AT SUMMER OUTING

Rhineland—Wholesale lumbermen from the northern part of the state gathered at Wildwood near here Friday to attend the summer outing of the Northern Wholesale Hardwood Lumbermen's association.

The members of the association went into a business session at 10 o'clock, which was to be followed by a noon luncheon. Golf, boating and bathing for all visitors and delegates were to feature the activities in the afternoon, together with a trip to the Indian village where the tribes are going to entertain the lumbermen with native dances.

The continuous round of merriment will end after an entertainment and dance, following a bounteous banquet at Moon's lake pavilion.

INDIAN BURGLAR GETS REFORMATORY SENTENCE

Ashland—Sam Wiggins, Ojibwa Indian youth who following his capture after escaping from the Ashland jail here in company with Leo Parks several weeks ago, pleaded guilty to the charge of burglarizing the Lockhard store at Odonah during April has been sentenced to two years at the Green Bay reformatory by Judge G. N. Risjord in circuit court here. He was taken to Green Bay to begin his sentence at once.

Issue Warning To Car Owners Who Dodge Tax

By Associated Press
Madison—A warning against automobile owners operating on permits obtained from local police for more than ten days was issued Friday by Secretary Fred R. Zimmerman. Such action is an attempt to dodge the motor vehicle laws to get reduced license rates, Mr. Zimmerman said. Reports coming to the state department use that numerous vehicles are operating over the state on permits. Inspectors of the state department have been advised to check up such cars and report them to police and department. After Sept. 1, the motor vehicle law provides that new vehicles or those that have not been driven this year will be licensed at half price. Mr. Zimmerman said apparently the owners are seeking this reduction.

Frank B. Kellogg Represents United States in Meeting of Allies in London

By Associated Press
London—The allied conference on the application of the Dawes reparations report got down to business early Friday morning. Frank B. Kellogg, the American ambassador, Premier Herriot of France, Premier Theunis of Belgium, and Finance Minister De Stefani of Italy, took breakfast in Downing Street with Prime Minister MacDonald at 7:45 and remained in conference with him until 10 o'clock.

The question of representation of the British dominions at the conference has been settled. It was announced by J. H. Thomas, the colonial secretary in the house of commons, Friday afternoon. It had been agreed, he said, that the representative of any dominion so desiring, including India, should become a member of the British Empire delegation at the conference under the Imperial system. Under this system the colonial delegates are designated one at a time in approved rotation to sit as a member of the British delegation.

Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain, as a special mark of courtesy to Secretary of State Hughes of the United States, plans to break the week end meeting of the interallied conference at Chequers and to return to London on Sunday to keep a dinner engagement with Mr. Hughes. No details of their meeting were forth coming Friday.

FRANCES HADFIELD IS ELIMINATED IN SEMI-FINAL ROUND

Bernice Wall Defeats Rival When She Makes An Ace on Difficult Sixth

By Associated Press
Milwaukee—Frances Hadfield, Milwaukee, fell before the same relentless attack of Mrs. Harry Landauer, also of Milwaukee, in the semi-final round of the annual Wisconsin Womens Golf association tournament here Friday, being two down at the end of the match.

While Mrs. Landauer was becoming a finalist, Miss Bernice Wall of Oshkosh, defending champion, was given an even battle by Virginia Gittens of Green Bay, whom she defeated one up. In winning her match, Miss Wall scored an ace on the 117-yard sixth, but this failed to discourage her opponent who fought to the last hole. Miss Hadfield's defeat was one of the surprises of the tournament. Where fortune had smiled on the Milwaukee girl during the earlier days of the play, Friday nothing was right and Mrs. Landauer took advantage of every mistake and turned the first nine, two up. She retained this advantage on the way home where Miss Hadfield encountered much trouble due to her weakness of the tee and on the fairway.

The Wall Gittens match was a fine battle between two well matched players. The climax of the play came with Miss Wall's ace on the sixth. The ball fell the tee, rose quickly and floated over the tops of the trees which guarded a water hazard, landed but a short distance from the cup and trickled in. To prove that the shot had not shaken her, Miss Gittens won the next hole.

LABOR FEDERATION BACKS LAFOLLETTE

By Associated Press
Wisconsin Rapids—The Wisconsin Federation of Labor in convention here formally endorsed the candidacy of Robert M. LaFollette for the presidency, by adoption of a special committee's report which recommended to the voters of the state of Wisconsin to give their active support to the candidacy of Robert M. LaFollette for President of the United States and to the platform adopted at the Cleveland convention of Progressive Political action.

The committee's report recommending the creation of a third national political party was also endorsed.

GROESBECK ANNOUNCES RACE FOR THIRD TERM

By Associated Press
Lansing, Mich.—Governor Alex W. Groesbeck announced Friday he will be a candidate for a third term. His decision followed a series of continuous conferences with leaders of administration forces struggling to select their candidate, and two potential administration candidates — George Welsh, speaker of the house of representatives, and Charles J. Deland, secretary of state, stepped down to make way for the governors action.

MACDONALD PARTY IS DEFEATED IN COMMONS

By Associated Press
London—The MacDonald government was defeated in the house of commons Friday by a vote of 171 to 149 during consideration of the unemployment insurance bill.

The vote was on an amendment offered by Liberal and Conservative members which was carried despite Labor opposition. The government's reversal is not considered important and there is no question of the prime minister resigning.

Meeting Is Outgrowth of Cleveland Conclave Which Neglected to Voice Choice

NELSON JOINS CONFERENCE

Campaign Manager Predicts Nomination in Every State of the Union

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C. — Confronted with the task of perfecting a national campaign organization and of selecting a vice presidential candidate, more than a score of Senator LaFollette's chief supporters gathered here Friday for a series of conferences.

Friday's meeting was an outgrowth of the convention two weeks ago in Cleveland of the Conference for Progressive Political Action, which, after endorsing the Wisconsin senator as an independent candidate for president, left the selection of his running mate to the national committee, made up for the most part of representatives of labor and farm organizations.

Members of the committee went into conference Friday with a dozen or more names advanced by committee members before them. Senator LaFollette, who has indicated he would leave the selection to the committee, was understood to look with favor on any one of a half dozen, and several have been approached indirectly to ascertain whether they would accept an endorsement.

WOULD NARROW FIELD

Before announcing a decision, the committee presided over by W. H. Johnson, president of the International Association of Machinists, intended to narrow down the field, then ascertain Mr. LaFollette's preference and finally determine whether the person selected would accept.

Selection of a vice presidential candidate was only one of many problems before the national committee which is to decide also on a plan for raising a LaFollette campaign fund, chiefly through small contributions from members of labor and farm organizations.

Representative John M. Nelson of Wisconsin, campaign manager for Mr. LaFollette, came to Washington from his Chicago headquarters to participate in the committee's meeting with a view to insuring cooperation with the conference organization and while here he also will give the senator or first hand information as to the progress thus far made in building up a campaign machine.

EXTEND ACTIVITIES

Determination of the LaFollette organization to make a strong bid for election in the east, while the work on the announcement by Mr. Nelson that campaign headquarters should be opened in New Orleans.

Subordinate to the main offices in Chicago, headquarters probably will be opened in New York and San Francisco. Representative LaGuardia, Republican, New York, has been asked to make preliminary arrangements for the eastern office while the work on the Pacific coast probably will be entrusted to Rudolph Spreckles.

On his arrival Mr. Nelson immediately went into conference with members of the national committee planning to confer with Senator LaFollette in the day. He predicted that the LaFollette ticket would be placed on the ballot in every state although he admitted that some obstacles were being encountered.

The most serious situation, he said, was in West Virginia where it was admitted, difficulty was being met in complying with the election law. The task of placing LaFollette electors on ballots in all states has been left in the hands of Donald Richberg, a Chicago attorney.

Auto Takes Rough Trip After Street Car Bump

Two Chicago people and their three small boys were placed in danger on Lake-st about 2:30 Thursday afternoon when the engine of their automobile stalled while they were in the path of an interurban car. The machine was hit, the movement of the car causing the engine to start while in gear and propel the automobile over a lawn and onto a pile of timbers. None of the occupants was injured, however.

Leopold Kass, 7217 Emerald-ave Chicago, was the driver of the car containing his family. He turned north on Lake-st from Foster and as he completed the turn his engine "died." Another tourist car had stopped at the curb while the driver asked information of the people on the porch of the Frank Paeth home at 847 Lake-st. This prevented Kass from guiding his car off the street car track.

Kass had seen the interurban proceeding northward from Lake-st and held out his arm as a signal to the motorman that he was in trouble and could not get out of the way. The interurban could not be stopped quickly enough, however, and it bumped the rear of the automobile.

Sudden jolting of the machine in this manner caused the engine to start while in gear. Kass was unprepared for this and before he could control the car it plunged over the curbing and into the yard of the E. P. Gehrke home at 933 Lake-st. It ran over a lilac tree and tore it up by the roots. The driver tried to guide the car back toward the street and it ran on top of a pile of timbers on the curbing and came to a stop hanging there.

Mrs. Kass appeared to be injured and was taken to St. Elizabeth hospital. A physician who examined her found no injuries, however, although the shock had unnerved her considerably. The others also were uninjured.

Damage was done to the car, the automobile and the transmission was battered by the timbers on which it rested.

AMERICAN TANK STARS GAIN NEW OLYMPIC GLORY

United States Womens Teams Win 400-Metre Relay on Sixth Day of Meet

By Associated Press
Olympic Swimming Pool, Les Toulois, France—The United States swimming team Friday started the sixth day of the Olympic competition with a victory in the women's 400-metre relay.

The American women broke the world's record, the distance being negotiated in 4 minutes, 58.45 seconds.

Velsmuller's time of five minutes 4.5 seconds broke the Olympic record but was far behind Arne Borg's world mark of 4 minutes 49 seconds which, however, has not yet been officially ratified.

Walter Kelola of Hawaii won the final of the 100-metre back stroke event.

The American men's 800-metre relay team Friday qualified for the semi-finals by finishing first in the first heat. The team includes Ralph Breyer, Northwestern university; Harry Glancy, Cincinnati Y. M. C. A.; Richard Howell, Northwestern university, and Wallace O'Connor, Venice Plunge, Calif.

Kelola's time winning the final of the 100-metre back stroke event was 1 minute 13.15 seconds, breaking the Olympic record.

Miss Elizabeth Becker of the Ambassador Swimming club of Atlantic City, N. J., won the final of the women's springboard fancy diving event.

Miss Aileen Rigin, women's swimming association of New York was second, and Miss Carol Fletcher, of Pasadena Calif., was third in the final of the spring board fancy diving event.

Miss Morton, of Great Britain won the final of the 200-metre women's breast stroke event with Miss Agnes Geraghty of the Women's Swimming association, New York, second.

John W. Velsmuller, the American swimmer, defeated his formidable rivals in the 400-metre swim by a magnificent rush during the last 50 metres of a terrific grind. Both the Illinois A. C. star and Arne Borg, his great Swedish rival used the crawl stroke throughout the race. The American made two poor turns, losing several feet at the 100 and 200-metre marks, but came through with an irresistible rush in the last lap.

BILLS UNPAID; VILLAGE FIRE CALL IN UNNEEDED

Green Bay — Refusals of town boards to pay for the services of the Green Bay fire department resulted in a residence in the town of Preble going up in smoke. Fire apparatus, it is said, could have quenched the blaze in a jiffy, while the bucket brigade was fortunate enough to prevent a total loss. For a lone time the city fire department answered many calls outside of city limits, but when bills for the services were presented to the townships they were ignored.

POLICE ARE AFTER MOTORING SHEIKS

New London Girls Left Stranded Spur Department to Stop "Pickup" Practice

Motoring sheiks may have their day in court if the police find any more cases like one occurring Thursday night in which two New London girls were left stranded here at 1 o'clock in the morning. Patrolmen found them wandering on College ave. took them to the station and notified the parents.

Ruth Marks and Marjorie Kallies, both 17, had been offered a ride by some young men who were "joyriding" with an automobile. The girls were unacquainted with the youths but accepted the offer. The car was driven to Appleton and when the time came for return home the girls were left on the streets and the car proceeded on its way.

Police were unable to trace the motorists and their license number had not been obtained. Fathers of the girls came here Friday to take them home.

This practice has become too general and we intend to find out what young men are doing it," said Capt. P. J. Vaughn, acting chief. "Lately we have picked up a number of these young girls who have been the victims of this trickery and it must stop."

Girls are blamed as much as the young men when they are placed in a predicament of this kind because they often are so eager for an automobile ride that they use little discretion.

4,024 CARS PASS CENSUS TAKEN IN WEDNESDAY COUNT

Increase of 600 Cars Over Traffic Count Made Year Ago

The third traffic census of the season on highway 15 was taken by Edward DeYoung Wednesday near Kimberly Interurban station. The total number of vehicles passing that point between 6 o'clock in the morning and 11 o'clock at night was 4,024. Of this number 3,371 were Wisconsin cars; 281 foreign cars; 84 light motor trucks; 274 heavy motor trucks; 8 motorcycles; and 6 horse drawn vehicles. Traffic was the lightest between 7 and 8 o'clock in the morning when 122 vehicles were counted and the heaviest was between 3 and 4 o'clock in the afternoon when the count was 380.

The second census was taken on July 4 at which time the total number of vehicles counted was 5,248.

The census on the same date a year ago showed a total of 4,331 vehicles of which 210 were foreign cars; 200 light motor trucks; 204 heavy motor trucks; 37 motorcycles; and 54 horse drawn vehicles.

Radio Outfit Is Wanted For Blind Veteran

Who has a radio set that they are willing to donate to a blind veteran of the World War?

That is what the people of Stephentown are asking. William Bash of that village who served on the battlefront with the Red Arrow division, has become totally blind. His friends desire to provide some sort of amusement by which he can while away his time and a radio outfit has been suggested.

It is believed that some radio fan may have a set that is not in use or one that has been laid aside because of the purchase of another, and that this person might be willing to donate it to Mr. Bash.

Guard Officer Will Be Given insignia of New Rank on Governor's Day

Camp Douglas, Wis.—The promotion of Brig. Gen. Robert Bruce McCoy, Sparta, to the rank of major general commanding the 32d division of the national guard was officially approved by the war department Thursday in a telegram from the chief of the militia bureau.

DECORATION TO BE CEREMONY

Gen. Immel announced Thursday, upon receipt of the Washington order, that the pinning of a second star on Gen. McCoy's shoulder and a first star on Col. Lee will be made a part of Governor's day exercises and would be performed by Gen. Charles King, the "father" of the state guard in the presence of the 3,500 officers and men in camp.

About 3,100 men paraded Thursday afternoon in the first all-camp review and parade of the year. The march included the 127th and 128 infantry, 105th cavalry, a tank company, an engineer unit, a military police unit,

Why Women Look 60 At 40

With dark circles under their eyes, yellowish complexion, drawn expressions drooping shoulders, a lagging step, many women of forty have the appearance of women of sixty. In many cases this condition is caused by overwork or neglect of such warning symptoms, as headaches, backache, nervousness, displacements, and irregularities which indicate ailments peculiar to women. If all women so afflicted would only rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound it would restore them to a normal healthy condition, and the premature signs of age will soon disappear.

WHEAT PRICES

The price of wheat, September delivery, is $1.27 in the Chicago market, $1.40 at Liverpool. December has reached a new high of better than $1.29. All indications are that wheat prices will go considerably higher. Some predictions are that the price will go between $1.50 and $1.60. Trading in grain is intensely active and price fluctuations are rapid, but underneath the speculation there is what appears to be a reliable forecast of a wheat shortage.

The present tendency of wheat prices, and the condition of the market, is a convincing demonstration of the fact that an ounce of economic law is worth a pound of political legerdemain. Commencing with the inauguration of Republican control, extravagant promises were made for restoring prosperity in the wheat growing northwest. Numerous legislative proposals were before congress for its special benefit, and among them was the scheme to raise wheat prices by tariff duty, which was enacted into legislation. This law had absolutely no effect on the price of wheat, and finally President Coolidge under authority granted to him by the tariff act raised the duty ten cents a bushel. This attempt to control the price artificially resulted in an actual price reduction, wheat falling off to about the amount of the increased tariff.

Wheat is increasing in price because of the world demand, and the probability of lowered surpluses for export. That is the reason, and the only reason. If wheat production in the United States could be accommodated to world production and consumption, there would be no need of tariff or other laws to create an artificial price. The same thing is true if the marketing of the American surplus could be controlled by the producers. Undoubtedly a grain export corporation could exercise some control over prices, but if the effect of its operations was to materially increase the price to the home consumer in the face of world over-production, it would then face the necessity of marketing the surplus at a heavy loss. Effective regulation of both production and marketing would undoubtedly be of greatest value to wheat growers. Whether this regulation should be brought about through government agencies and the use of public funds, or whether it should be undertaken by private resources in cooperative form, is an important question of national policy.

THE PUBLIC'S MONEY POWER

That excellent economic journal, The Analyst, published by the New York Times, contains an article, "The Stock Exchange Losing the Race with Securities," by Mr. Edward A. Bradford, which describes the growth of a new method of industrial financing. The method really has been in operation for some ten years, but its effects are so noticeable now as to leave no doubt as to its permanency.

The stock exchange has done no more than to hold its own. "Stock Exchange business has suffered loss," says Mr. Bradford, "from shrinkage of new business which once belonged to it rather than from failure to get the new business which has come into existence in recent years."

The stock exchange is only a trading place where stocks and bonds are bought and sold. It is not a banking institution. The shares and securities in which it trades are those which are listed and for which there is a general demand. In recent years there has been a great increase in the number of brokerage houses, most of which sell stocks and bonds direct to the public. Regular banking concerns and trust companies deal in investments, selling to the public. Many industrial and public utility companies dispose of their stocks and securities themselves by sales to employees and the general public.

The status of Wall street is generally misunderstood. Wall street, as a financial entity, has command of ready money and it is powerful in that it can promptly underwrite any loan, no matter how large. But Wall street sells the securities which it acquires, and the public absorbs these investments. Wall street is an intermediary between buyer and seller.

Wall street brokers, like other brokers, market securities and stocks. They sell direct to investors. Or they parcel securities out among brokers in many cities, who sell them to the public. Industrial, public utility and transportation companies report enormous increases in the number of stockholders. This means the people are becoming heavily interested in the stocks and bonds of corporations.

Corporations take the same point of view as the public concerning concentration of money power. They cannot take the risk of being under the domination of any group. Their independence lies in scattering their stock and bonds.

HEARST AND THE ELECTION

The attitude of the Hearst Newspapers in the presidential campaign has been a matter of speculation. It was reported from New York that William Randolph had put his O. K. on the candidacy of Robert M. La Follette, and that the support of his many newspapers would be concentrated on this nominee. Yet Arthur Brisbane, who writes first page editorials for the Hearst publications, has this to say of the La Follette candidacy:

La Follette won't be bothered with any of that official notification. He knows he is nominated and is at work. His friends call upon workmen's unions to supply money for the campaign. Will they do it? The answer is DOUBTFUL. Workmen know that La Follette cannot be elected. That is out of the question. If they choose to give him a big vote it may throw the election in the house and perhaps thence into the senate. La Follette could not be elected in any case. How much money will the unions vote for the sake of a "fine gesture," knowing that they can't win?

This is a frank expression of the hopelessness of the La Follette candidacy. It comes from a source that ordinarily would be expected to take a different attitude. There is not even an endorsement of the cause for which the Wisconsin senator stands. Is it possible that the Hearst publications, which are also portraying the internal troubles of the Democrats in vivid colors, are preparing for a rebirth of conservatism and are going to support Coolidge and Davies?

WHAT IS IN A TITLE?

Only once in a while did we hear of Mr. Alva A. Adey, second assistant secretary of state. Whenever a great international issue arose, we read that the department of state awaited an opinion from Mr. Adey, its principal technician. In the course of years we arrived subconsciously at the conclusion that diplomats relied implicitly on Mr. Adey's conclusions.

"The death of Mr. Adey brings to an end a service which is unparalleled for its length and efficiency in the history of the department of state." This was Secretary Hughes' tribute to the deceased statesman.

Through Republican and Democratic administration Mr. Adey was connected with the state department for thirty-eight years. All recognized his great ability. One of the ironies of public life is that some of the ablest men must occupy comparatively inferior positions. No one could remain long in the public service except in a secondary office. The state department changed every few years, but the pivot stayed in place. Statesmen and politicians, coming and going, felt that one man was indispensable. This is why Mr. Adey was only second assistant.

THE CARE OF THE TEETH

Eight of every 10 pupils in the schools of Anna, Ill., were found to have cavities in their teeth, anywhere from one to 17 cavities. One in every five pupils had root or gum abscesses or roots that needed extraction. Only one in every six of the pupils had clean teeth. More than half of them had "fairly clean teeth," more than one-fourth of them had perfectly clean teeth.

That is a fair average condition of the teeth of children and youths, I should say.

Now let us see how come.
School Life, published by the bureau of education at Washington, gives the data I am quoting. Of all the pupils whose teeth were examined, 47.8 per cent used a toothbrush irregularly, 44.6 per cent used the brush daily, and 7.5 per cent used no brush.

Does it pay to use a toothbrush at all? I am carefully refraining from committing myself on that. I neither affirm or deny. I merely inquire. What do you think?

The survey does not inform us whether the 7.5 per cent of pupils who used no toothbrush had the best teeth in the lot, but I should like to have an opportunity to make a good wager with some one who believes in brushing the teeth, on a question like that.

Until we get away from our present custom of restricting children to ultra-refined and denatured food the more or less regular daily use of the toothbrush will probably remain an essential of mouth hygiene. I therefore advise that every child be taught to make use of the toothbrush daily as part of the toilet, from the earliest possible time after the cutting of the first teeth to the time of the eruption of such of the third molars (wisdom teeth) as the individual is to have. About half of us go through life shy from one to all four wisdom teeth at present. We don't need 'em to masticate pap.

I'm a little regretful now of all the good time I wasted brushing my teeth after I had cut my wisdom teeth. In the first place it didn't get me anything but the way of better teeth. In the next place I might have devoted that time with greater advantage to the business of saving my hair.

Once in a month or two, even yet, I get a dirty feeling and go and brush my teeth to ease my conscience. But to tell the honest truth I know very well that I am merely easing my conscience, not saving my teeth.

The recent trend of all scientific research is strongly in the direction of a sun-poling hair, that is, that tooth brushing is a waste of time which perhaps eases the conscience and momentarily overcomes a dirty feeling, but doesn't save any teeth.

The nature of the diet and the use of the teeth in the mastication of the kind of foods required to furnish the kind of material to build sound teeth, determine the condition of the teeth, not the tooth brushing rite. The diet of the prospective mother must be adequate to insure sound teeth for the unborn child. The infant's diet must be adequate. The child's diet and the diet of the adult should be undernourished.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Please publish the treatment for alcoholism given to the medical profession by Dr. Alexander Lambert, or if it is not possible tell where one can write for it. (Mrs. W. S. R.)

Answer.—It is not for the laity. Dr. Lambert published all the details in medical journals and the treatment is described in medical books now. I should be glad to refer your physician to these. The treatment can be given only by a physician.

Is coffee constipating? How much coffee would you advise drinking a day and which is best with or without cream? Also could you tell me how to fix milk so as not to constipate a person. Am writing you for information in regards to drinking coffee. (J. H.)

Answer.—Coffee is constipating only when it has been boiled. It is a crime to boil coffee even for a moment. Suit your taste about cream. Milk is not constipating. A cupful or two is enough coffee for the average adult to take daily. Children under 16 should take no coffee. The reason why boiling makes coffee constipating and also makes it unfit to drink is that boiling extracts tannin (tannic acid) from the coffee beans, which embitters the beverage and drives the victim to tobacco, drink and other ways of trying to forget the horror of the morning's breakfast. One might derive about the same flavor by boiling up a few pieces of an old shoe. (Copyright, 1924, NEA Service, Inc.)

HONOR WHERE HONOR IS DUE

Editor Post-Crescent—Will you please find space in your columns from a lone objector on the following: According to yours of July 15th Appleton Junior High schools will be named Roosevelt and Wilson. I will withdraw my objections providing the following inscriptions will be added after the names.

Let us bustle the trust. Wilson he kept us out of war.

If we must name our junior high school after politicians how would D. and D. be Denby and Daugherty or Fall and Doheny.

My idea of fitting names and ones we can be proud of would be as you also made note of namely: Miss Morgan and Miss Pynn.

They have so to say given their whole lives to the upbuilding of the wonderful educational institutions of our city and may I add that Appleton does not have to take a back seat for any other city in the whole state.

How could its citizens honor them any more? I hope the board will consider the naming very seriously, for once given its very difficult to change.

CHAS. M. SCHRIMPF

Self-Talker Is Mental Genius

(From Answers, London.)

Do you talk to yourself? It may be assumed that your reply is in the negative. Self-talkers are often regarded as a trifle queer. Yet if you call to mind all your acquaintances who have this habit are not the majority, if not all, of them men and women of considerable mental gifts? One of the greatest commercial magnates in this country talks to himself. It would be palpably ridiculous to hint that he must be queer. He is too much of a force!

Great preachers, statesmen and writers are nearly all self-talkers. Go to the universities and get to know the leading professors—men of immense learning and intellectual power—nine out of 10 of them talk to themselves as they walk about! The truth is that there is no finer exercise for the brain and on better way of solving hard problems. Self-talking is at once a clarifier and a safety valve. Strong intense, silent, mental concentration is really not good; for it strains the brain. Arguments crowd upon one another and those that are rejected are not really let go. The mind retains them. But self-talking pulls them out as it were, and throws them away. The next time you have a knotty problem to solve try talking it over with yourself aloud and you will be astonished at the result.

One well-known author has admitted that he thrashes out all the complications of his plots in that way. His friends admit that he is clever, but they also think he's queer. He is not. All that he does is to use a method which, as he knows from experience, helps him. Self-talking is never a sign of folly. One of the first symptoms of mental affliction is silence—a withdrawal into one's self. Is Fallson a fool? No! Yet he talks to himself. Try it yourself and see how it helps you.

He is the book; all the other characters, all the dramatic incidents, all the long descriptions of the battle of Waterloo are for the purpose of setting him off and revealing him fully to the reader. A considerable part of "Les Misérables" could be cut out without seriously injuring it as a great novel. As long as the character of Jean Valjean remains untouched the book will remain alive.

WORSHIPPED AS POET

It is rather interesting to note the conditions under which this book was written. It appeared toward the close of Victor Hugo's life, toward the close, moreover, of a long and triumphant life. When still a mere boy Hugo took Paris by storm with his poetry, and that meant taking all France by storm. He was called the wonder child and the great man of France fairly worshipped him. Gautier already famous at the time, obtained an introduction to the boy and mounted to the poet's flat trembling much as he stood in awe of the great new poet. Later Hugo was elected to the French academy and still later he was a peer of France, all in recognition of his flaming genius.

And then came trouble. He became mixed up in the troubled politics of the day, was expelled from Paris and a price was set upon his head. Paris was the world to him and he loved the city with a passion that it is perhaps hard for anyone not a Frenchman to appreciate to the full. But he was forced into exile and the closing years of his life were sad and overcast.

WROTE NOVEL OF PITY

And it was then that he wrote a great novel of pity. In "Les Misérables" a contrast is presented between the fundamental cruelty of society and the fundamental goodness and greatness of the individual. Jean Valjean spends years in prison for the mere theft of a loaf of bread that he needed against starvation, an act which he has escaped and has reestablished himself so that he has become honored and respected, society, in the person of Javert, cruelly hunts him down again. But in spite of all this, Jean Valjean does not become bitter but grows in moral stature until in the end he is almost more godlike than human.

Reading it with Victor Hugo's life history in mind one wonders if secretly Hugo did not have himself in mind. The things he did that caused his banishment doubtless seemed noble to him and the social organization represented by those in power at the moment doubtless seemed cruel and unjust to him. Perhaps unconsciously he was painting a picture of himself in Jean Valjean.

The theme of organized society working to destroy the goodness of the individual has frequently been exploited. A few years ago Galsworthy treated it in his play, "Justice." There is something to be said for it on both sides. But that is of minor importance. Jean Valjean is vital and alive and that alone counts in a novel.

THE VITALITY OF JEAN VALJEAN

JEAN

There are novels that dominate their characters, like Harlow's "Return of the Native," and there are other novels that are dominated by a character—books of which the character is better known than the title of the book.

He is one of those characters that belong to world literature, not merely to French literature that first produced him. There are probably thousands of people who know next to nothing about "Les Misérables," who do not know the name of its author, who have never read the book, but who nevertheless have a general idea of the character of Jean Valjean.

Knowledge of him has seeped through to them by way of a thousand allusions to the great character of Victor Hugo in other words, in magazine articles, in sermons, in speeches.

Jean Valjean has become a household word, a catchphrase. Many who know quite a lot about him in a general way would probably never associate him with the book in which he appears.

He is the book; all the other characters, all the dramatic incidents, all the long descriptions of the battle of Waterloo are for the purpose of setting him off and revealing him fully to the reader. A considerable part of "Les Misérables" could be cut out without seriously injuring it as a great novel. As long as the character of Jean Valjean remains untouched the book will remain alive.

Girls Eager To Start On Camp Trip

Young Women Will Have Plenty of Reading Matter at Onaway Island

"We can't wait until tomorrow" is the expression that greets executives of the recreation department when campfire girls and girl scouts call at Appleton Women's club to get final instructions about the camp at Onaway Island, Waupaca, which opens Saturday morning. Seven councilors left for the camp Friday morning and the remainder will go with the girls on Saturday.

Girls who attended the camp last year are more enthusiastic than ever about prospects for the next few weeks and those who will camp for the first time this year are gleefully anticipating the good times ahead.

One hundred and twenty-five song books have been made by a group of girls and are to be used at the camp. These contain popular songs and many parodies and are guaranteed to add "spice" to the evenings.

Appleton Public Library has cooperated with the project and is sending 50 books, covering a wide range of subjects, to the camp. There will be taken care of by a librarian. The same method was used last year.

LETTER FROM RUTH ELLINGTON TO LESLIE PRESCOTT

Although I know, dear, that you are coming home Saturday, there are a few things I want you to know before you see Jack.

In the first place, if I were you, now that Karl is going to marry Alice, I would tell Jack all about the pearls. In the second place, I believe I would tell him you are a half owner in my business, and in the third place—well, on second thought, I do not think I'll say anything about the third place, for that place is where only you and Jack can meet and you do not want a third person even to suggest the meeting.

Sometimes I think, Leslie, that the reason why married people are not happier is because they keep so much from each other. If one lives with another person all the time, if two people must be chained together even if those bonds be the bonds of matrimony, I believe they should either be absolute strangers, if that can be done, or the complete one that marriage is supposed to make of two people.

I had a long talk the other day with your husband, Leslie. I really like him very much, and I honestly believe if you two people would be perfectly honest with one another, you would be the happiest people on earth. Really and truly I do not think either of you has anything that matters much concealed. Jack has been an exemplary husband, has he not? But you go on thinking that the other is not as broad minded, as sympathetic, or as understanding as you yourself are, and that's the trouble.

I'm glad you want to see Jack's mother, I knew you had only to go there to make the conquest of her. Leslie, I wonder if you know that all women like you. I do not believe you have the same attraction for all men, but when a man does proffer you his friendship I am sure he cares very much for you.

By the way, I have met your friend and Jack's secretary, Mrs. Atherton. When I first saw her I didn't think she was even good looking, but I have come to the conclusion that she has an odd personality perhaps more fascinating than good looks. She seems excessively frank, yet I have a feeling that she never tells anything she doesn't want to tell. That's the cleverest kind of a woman, Leslie.

I wish when you return you would give her a special invitation to come to your house some evening when you know Jack is going to be away, and I will drop in. She rather piques my curiosity. Did you tell me you used to go to school together, and that she had had a great smashup in her married life?

The other evening she was a member of a party at one of the restaurants, and I must say that with her gorgeous red hair bobbed and plastered down all over her head, and her simple little black sleeveless dress which showed arms of the peculiar whiteness that always goes with the skin of a red head, with her brown eyes sparkling with reddish gleams she was the most individual looking woman in the room.

Jack, who was there with a party of men, evidently called the attention of his party to her, for before the evening was over the whole four men which made up Jack's party had joined the others around their table. Soon after they came, however, Mrs. Atherton made some excuse and left. I'm rather curious to know what it was.

I'll be awfully glad to see you Saturday. I've been lonely without you Leslie. The business is going on fine and we're going to make a barrel of money.

Lovingly, RUTH.

IN COUNTY LEAGUE

Electric City Team Will Play Independent Ball Rest of Season

Kaukauna—Stormy Kromer's home talent baseball club must play independent baseball or disband, according to latest information. Stormy applied for a berth in the Calumet-Manitowish league but he was given the cold shoulder. After taking a vote on the question, the C-M officials decided that Kaukauna is too far out of the way with respect to the other towns in the circuit.

The Electric City has scheduled a game on the local grounds for Saturday afternoon with an independent team from the slayards of Manitowish. The exhibition will get under way at 2:30. Kromer has reduced the admission price.

Kromer will use an entire home team. Kilgas is expected to don the mittens behind the log while Gertz is scheduled to uncork his henders from the rubber. Just who will work with that battery remains to be seen since Stormy has a number of recruits to pick from.

AUTOMOBILES DAMAGED
IN STREET CORNER CRASH

Kaukauna—No one was injured but a Ford truck and a Buick car were damaged Thursday evening when the Buick driven by Ben Biese ran into the truck driven by Eugene Dietzler. The accident occurred at the corner of Hendricks-ave and Seventh-st. Biese is said to have "cut" the corner and was headed straight for the truck, but Dietzler, by turning suddenly, avoided a head-on collision. The Buick struck the rear wheel of the Ford, tearing out one spoke and badly twisting the axle housing. The Buick continued to travel across the road, over the curb in front of the L. N. Perry home where it was stopped when it hit a post.

IS ROBBED OF $40
BY NIGHT BURGLAR

Bloodhound Is Used Without Effect in Tracing Thieves Who Entered Place

New London—The pool hall owned by John Lowe on North Water-st. was robbed Tuesday night of about $40. The cash register contained about $10 in change which thieves took, and two gun machines containing nickels and dimes were opened. Mr. Lowe had a bloodhound here but this method of tracing the robbers was ineffective. A window was broken in the rear of the pool hall by the thieves to gain access to the building.

Police are following up other clues in the expectation of arresting the burglars.

SLIGHTLY BETTER BUSINESS MAY BE EXPECTED IN FALL

Babson Indicates That Bottom of Depression Is Near at Hand

Babson Park, Mass. — "Is there anything especially to fear from the recent tremendous declines in certain industries?" The question was put today to Roger W. Babson the business authority, as he completed a survey of business so far this year.

"There is nothing surprising in the recent slowing up of business, since the decline has been really indicated in the fundamental situation for over a year," says Mr. Babson. "We are still going through a process of readjustment from the post-war boom and the same thing is to look the facts in the face, measure our true position, and plan to meet conditions as they exist instead of sitting around wishing for a business boom. During the first half of this year we made progress in the matter of this necessary readjustment. Commodity prices have continued their broad swing downward. Since industrial commodities have suffered more than agricultural during this half year we find our present adjustment between these two groups much more satisfactory and much sounder fundamentally than it was when the farmer was getting pre-war prices for his crops but having to pay post-war prices for everything he bought."

WAGES HAVE DROPPED

"Industrial activity has also slowed down. At the beginning of the year we found manufacturers generally divided into two groups. Those who had enjoyed considerable activity during the latter part of 1923, planned for increased production during the year. The other group planned for an average volume and made no elaborate preparations for expansion. The first group has suffered and is suffering rather severe disappointment, the second group is in a much sounder position at this time. Statistics compiled on the activity of sixty leading industries of New York state show that wages paid, which in January totaled 102 per cent of the previous year, have dropped to 85 per cent by the end of June. The number of employees, meantime, have declined from 97 per cent in January to 89 by mid-year. On volume of goods the Babson Production Index which stood at 189 in January registers 142½ six months later, showing a drop of no less than 25 per cent in the volume of goods manufactured."

"Sales, meantime, have naturally fallen off. Today nearly every state is showing an amount of business smaller than that of the corresponding month for 1923. Many business men have been surprised at this development, but it also was foreshadowed in the figures of last fall and early spring. The percentage of increase in general business, as reflected in bank clearings, and in car loadings—both at high points last year—have shown a consistent decline. The margins of gain have narrowed until we have barely crossed last year's figures. Dulness in textile industries has been noted and the gradual slowing of the building boom, which, however, is still a matter of high figures for some set one, has turned the color for an otherwise drab decline."

SEES IMPROVEMENT

"Looking forward to the last half of the year," continued Mr. Babson, "the figures would indicate the prospect of a moderate improvement—with the accent on the 'moderate' rather than upon the 'improvement.' Several factors support this expectation. The decline during the first half of the year has been steady and in many instances acute. Present indications would suggest that certainly the rate of descent must slow up and eventually give way to a sideways movement. General business activity, for instance, which has been running at 13 per cent below normal for the last two weeks shows resistance in this week's readings of the Babson chart which stands at 13 per cent below normal. Money is easy. The fact has been used as an argument for expecting the immediate return of prosperity. Money, however, plays the part of a brake rather than the prime mover on the business machine. Tight money can slow things down very effectively but easy money does not, in and of itself, start business improvement."

"There is no question that available

Women Philosophical As They Watch Tresses Fall

One time when a woman doesn't talk is when she is having her hair bobbed for the first time. With eyes peering straight ahead in the mirror, she waits with anxiety while the barber combs out the flowing tresses. Then there is a snip, and the worst is done. Ah "oh," or "ugh" is usually the only comment. Then while the trimming is being done, the decision of whether she is going to like it, is made. Do married women regret having their hair bobbed? Local hairdressers and barbers say the number that do is comparatively small. Women who have left their hair grow out have cut it again because it is more comfortable bobbed. There's everything in getting used to it. Many married women are having their hair bobbed and they like it for they soon go back for a trim. In fact, dad, mother and their children all come together to have their hair cut, says Frank Neumann, west end barber.

There is no age limit for bobbing hair. The oldest woman in Appleton known to have her hair bobbed is 63 years of age. Men have many reasons why women should not bob their hair but none of them seem to be more substantial than Jiggs' excuses to get away from Maggie. Hairdressers of this city believe many husbands oppose bobbed hair because it makes their wives look younger while they grow old all by themselves.

Most women do have their husband's approval while some say their husbands urged them to bob their hair. Again there are some husbands who "have a perfect fit" but they survive and the bob is kept.

Women who weep and become hysterical after their hair is cut, barbers believe do not exist. If they do, such scenes are not witnessed by them. Although woman has the privilege of changing her mind, it is seldom she would use it in regard to bobbed hair. When she finally has reached the barber's chair, she has made up her mind, barbers say, and she usually has an idea of how she is going to look. At least, Appleton women won't admit defeat in the chair, even if they don't like it especially when it is only half off. Hairdressers say they avoid cutting the hair the first time so the ears show, because it seems to frighten the women if they see that their ears are to be on display.

Census Shows Largest Increase of Any Year

You Lose Gas Enough

—without the slice that poor fuel grabs.

THIS graphic chart tells the truth about the gas you buy. Only 20.8 per cent is converted into engine power and over two-fifths of that is absorbed somewhere between the motor and the road. 12½ per cent is all that you really get in net power.

In the face of a loss like that under the best of conditions, can you afford to handicap yourself still further with a poor, cheapened motor fuel that is sapped and skimmed of its full efficiency long before it goes into your tank?

You can at least start with full hundred per cent fuel value by filling with

Wadham's True Gasoline

It is the genuine, old-fashioned straight run real gasoline. Its edge has not been taken off by slow ragged firing nor its power diminished by heavy carbon and kerosene-laden materials.

It's all there from the start—ready to deliver every fraction of power that your car can develop. You can afford nothing less.

COLLEGE STUDENTS CAR BUYERS NOW

College students form the largest and best group of prospects for used automobiles in the country, according to a survey just made by Olds

Motor Works. Figures obtained from a widely separated list of dealers in college cities showed that 42 students purchased used cars to every 12 that bought new automobiles. One used car dealer in a college town reported the sale of 50 used cars to students during 1923. The Oldsmobile dealer at Ann Arbor, Michigan, the home of the University of Michigan, sells an average of 75 used cars yearly to university students.

As a supplementary check on this survey, investigations were made in three representative cities to determine the trend among the high school students who were car owners. Here, also it was found that the used car was in great demand. Students, either college or high school, were found to be purchasers either of used cars or low priced cars. In most cases they preferred a used car of a better make than they could afford if buying a

The inquiry developed that automobile ownership by college and high school students was in most cases necessary and was not for "joy riding" purposes. Colleges are rapidly doing away with dormitories, with the result that students are finding living quarters in private homes, often miles from the college campus. In such cases the automobile is serving the students as it is serving the great mass of workers who use their cars for transportation to and from

A large number of high school students also are using cars for the same purpose and by means of the automobile thousands of girls and youths living in rural sections are enabled to attend high schools in neighboring cities.

NEW RIVERSIDE MILL NOW IS IN FULL OPERATION

Short Shutdown Necessary While Repairs Were Made in Sulphite Plant

With every adjustment made, the new paper machine of the new mill of Riverside Fibre & Paper company, said to be the last word in papermill construction, started turning out paper Monday. It is being operated at capacity 24 hours a day and will run six days a week, shutting down only on Sundays. It is turning out sulphite bond and ledger papers which the company has been manufacturing for years.

The sulphite mill was closed down last week to permit repairs and the installation of new stokers of increased capacity. This necessitated the shutting down of the new machine which completed its trial run. Both mills now are in full operation. The south wall of the storeroom in the sulphite mill has been torn out and the new one is being brought even with the south wall of the new mill. The exterior walls of the sulphite mill are to be given a coat of Gunite so they will correspond with the walls of the new mill.

The new filtration plant on Lake-st. which has a capacity of four million gallons of water every 24 hours, and which is to furnish water for both mills, is completed and workmen are now engaged in filling in earth on the settling basin which is to be planted with grass seed and decorated with flower beds and shrubbery. Pumps operated by electricity force the water to the fifth floor of the stock building of the new mill, an elevation of 80 feet.

The new mill is equipped with an auto-call system which makes it possible to call an executive from any part of the mill to the telephone nearest him. It is operated by the person in charge of the telephone switch-board in the office.

Hairdressers Laugh At Prophet Who Says Women Of Future Will Be Bald

She who hesitates to cut her hair may lose it, members of the Appleton "make 'em beautiful" profession believe despite the prediction of Joseph Byrne, at the annual American Master Hairdressers convention in New York, that in a hundred years or less the world is to have a bald-headed race of women unless immediate steps are taken to prohibit cutting girls' hair. Small hats which are necessarily tight, he says, will result in women's hair falling out the same as men's hair. He to blame baldness of men to the tight hatbands of their hats.

Barbers and hairdressers here declare that bobbing hair may be the means of saving it. If the scalp is dirty, infested or sore from a scalp disease, the hair will fall out if it is long enough to reach the feet, so Mrs. Frances Davis of the Sanitary barber shop, says. Bobbed hair gives to many girls an opportunity to remedy the condition of the scalp, she declared. If they had long hair they would not cut it and be out of style and therefore the scalp suffers. Then, truly would the baldheaded career of the women begin. Barbers generally agree that the bobbed hair fashion is sanitary, for because the hair is short, it is much easier to shampoo and women do it more readily.

Hairdressers of this city do not agree with Mr. Byrne's statement that the small hats the milliners are making to fit the smaller heads will cause women's hair to drop out. They do not believe that the close fitting hat is a factor in producing bald heads. Anyway, bobbed heads go more without hats. Mrs. Mabel Dunn of the Comfort shop, believes.

Joseph Schomisch, West end barber, believes that a man does not become bald from wearing a hat. He basals this on his own experience, and that of his three brothers. They wear hats continually on the farm and have thick hair, while he seldom wears one and is getting bald.

Frank Neumann, West end barber, contradicts Mr. Byrne's statement that the constant cutting of hair tends to weaken it and to lower its power of production. Hair strands are hollow and have muscles at the roots, not only does not kill the muscles but strengthens the hair.

That bobbing the hair is childhood strengthens and increases the power of production, while in mature age there is not apt to be a marked change, is agreed upon by barbers and hairdressers. It is of interest to know that the constant bobbing of hair does tend to darken the color, and often women who desire to have switches made of their cut off hair, must have it dyed in order to get a match.

Ill health and poor scalp condition are blamed by Appleton barbers and hairdressers as more frequent reasons for baldness. The barbers say they could lay aside their tools forever if they could learn why men become bald and then find a remedy. Proprietors of beauty shops say that if the threat that women of the future will be baldheaded is the only argument against bobbed hair, women are not discouraged but will continue to persevere in the fashion.

GAS IS BARGAIN IN OMAHA TRADE WAR

Omaha, Neb.—Gasoline at bargain prices! Omaha's gas war, playing havoc with the old-line companies, has brought the price of gasoline to a new low price.

B. S. Elrod, who joined the 15-Cent League when gas was selling for 20 1/2 cents, is now at outs with the organization.

He's selling 3000 gallons of gasoline at 10 cents a gallon.

This is too much for the league, Dr. J. F. Despecher, president, suspects that Elrod plans to frighten other dealers into ceasing their competitive practices and increase the price.

Meanwhile the war is spreading. Fremont and Lincoln are now in the battle zone. Gas stations there are selling auto juice for 15 cents a gallon.

Governor Charles Bryan has opened a state gas station and is selling at cut prices. He'll continue unless enjoined, he says.

Commissioner John Hopkins of Omaha, vice president of the 15-Cent League, is conducting the municipal gasoline station at no profit and at no loss, selling gas at 13 cents. He plans to keep the city in business permanently as a guard against high prices.

The independents have been purchasing gasoline at refineries at from 8 1/2 to 10 cents a gallon. Freight charges are 2.21 cents a gallon.

"I buy gas for 11 cents and sell it for 13—a fair profit," says a sign on one independent station.

The 15-cent station center around a railroad track, which reduces hauling expenses. But admitting this advantage, the proprietors declare that the old-line companies were making millions of dollars when selling gasoline above 20 cents.

And autolists see another promise of permanent relief in a state investigation in progress.

HELBLE, HELD IN BELOIT, CAN'T COME TO APPETON

Herbert H. Helble, former Appleton high school teacher who was being talked of to take Leon C. High's place as assistant principal of Appleton high school will teach at Beloit college instead. Mr. Helble had a position with the college when he was offered the opportunity to return to Appleton. He was anxious to accept the Appleton offer but found it impossible to be released from his contract with Beloit. No one has as yet been hired for the position.

Miss Jennie Bailey of Elgin, Ill., has been engaged to take the place of Miss Helene Lierke, who resigned to accept a position in Toledo. Miss Bailey is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin and taught last year at Coal City, Ill.

FEW VACANCIES IN RANKS OF TEACHERS

With less than half a dozen exceptions, teachers for the county schools have been engaged for the coming year. The number of resignations at the end of the school year was below the average and there are more than enough teachers in the county to fill the vacancies. While a few changes have been made in salaries, the average will be about the same as last year. The number of teachers employed is approximately 150.

Try this new recipe

HERE is the richest, most delightfully cooling of hot weather breakfasts. Made of oats, it's supremely nourishing and invigorating, too.

As you prepare dinner tonight, cook your regular breakfast quantity of QUICK QUAKER (the new Quaker Oats that cooks in three to five minutes).

When done, pour into a pudding mould and let cool. Then in the refrigerator over night. Cut in medium thick slices and serve at breakfast with fresh or cooked fruits or berries and sugar—float with rich milk or cream.

The combination is delightful. A world noted chef discovered this new way. Just for the joy of it, try it.

SO BIG

By Edna Ferber

The General was interested but uncomprehending. He glanced now at the watch on his wrist and gave a little exclamation. "But the dinner! Our hostess, Madame Storm! It is very fine to run away but one must come back. Our so beautiful hostess! He had sprung to his feet.

"She is beautiful, isn't she?" said Selma.

"No," Roelf replied, abruptly. "The mouth is smaller than the eyes. With Mrs. Storm from here to here"—he illustrated by turning to Dallas, touching her lips, her eyes, lightly with his slender powerful brown fingers—"is smaller than from here to here. When the mouth is smaller than the eyes there is no real beauty. Now Dallas here—"

"Yes, me," scoffed Dallas, all aglitter. "There's a grand mouth for you. If a large mouth is your notion of beauty then I must look like Helen of Troy to you, Roelf."

"You do," said Roelf, simply.

Inside Dirk something was saying, over and over, "You're nothing but a rubber stamp, Dirk DeJong. You're nothing but a rubber stamp." Over and over.

"These dinners!" exclaimed the General. "I do not wish to seem ungracious, but these dinners! Much rather would I remain here on this quiet and beautiful farm."

At the porch steps he turned, brought his heels together with a sharp smack, bent from the waist, picked up Selma's rouch work-worn hand and kissed it. And then, as she smiled a little, uncertainly, her left hand at her breast, her cheeks pink, Roelf, too, kissed her hand tenderly.

"Why," said Selma, and laughed a soft tremulous little laugh. "Why, I've never had my hand kissed before."

She stood on the porch steps and waved at them as they whirled swiftly away, the four of them. A slight straight little figure in the plain white blouse and the skirt spattered with the soil of the farm.

"You'll come out again?" she had said to Dallas. And Dallas had said yes, but she was leaving soon for Paris, to study and work.

"When I come back you'll let me do your portrait!" Selma had exclaimed, wonderfully.

Now as the four were whirled back to Chicago over the asphalted Halsted road they were relaxed, a little tired. They yielded to the narcotic of spring that was in the air.

Roelf Pool took off his hat. In the cruel spring sunshine you saw that the black hair was sprinkled with gray. "On days like this I refuse to believe that I'm forty-five. Dallas, tell me I'm not forty-five."

"You're not forty-five," said Dallas in her leisurely conversational voice.

Roelf's lean brown hand reached over frankly and clasped her strong white one. "When you say it like that, Dallas, it sounds true."

"It is true," said Dallas.

They dropped Dallas first at the shabby old Ontario Street studio, then Dirk at his smart little apartment, and went on.

Dirk turned his key in the lock. Saki, the Japanese houseman, slid silently into the hall making little hissing noises of greeting. On the correct little console in the hall there was a correct little pile of letters and invitations. He went through the Italian living room and into his bedroom. The Jap followed him. Dirk's correct evening clothes (made by Peel the English tailor on Michigan Boulevard) were laid correctly on his bed-trousers, vest, shirt coat, fine, immaculate.

"Messages, Saki?"

"Misses Saki telephone."

"Oh, leave any message?"

"No, Saki's call 'gain."

"All right, Saki." He waved him away and out of the room. The man went and closed the door softly behind him as a correct Jap servant should. Dirk took off his coat, his vest, threw them on a chair near the bed. He stood at the bedside looking

CATLIN SIGNS TO COACH COLLEGE FOOTBALL TEAM

Veteran Grid Mentor Developed 5 Champions At Appleton College

Football Followers Happy When Catlin Agrees to Take Charge of 1924 Football Practice.

Mark S. Catlin is to return to Lawrence as coach of its football team.

Negotiations for the return of Mr. Catlin as head coach of the college grid squad were completed this week and Mr. Catlin will begin at once to prepare for next fall's work. He succeeds Howard (Cub) Buck whose resignation was forwarded to college authorities on Monday. Mr. Buck has signed a contract to play with the Green Bay Packers, a professional team, next season.

Mr. Catlin is one of the best known football coaches in the midwest. He has piloted Lawrence to five state championships and for four years his Lawrence team did not lose a game, except to the University of Wisconsin, a much larger school. One year he played the university to a tie and came within inches of defeating the big school.

GREAT COLLEGE PLAYER

During his college days Catlin was one of the greatest football players in the country. He captained the University of Chicago team one year and was undying fame on the gridiron when he defeated the University of Michigan by downing a Michigan map back of his own goal line for a safety in game on which the championship of the west hinged.

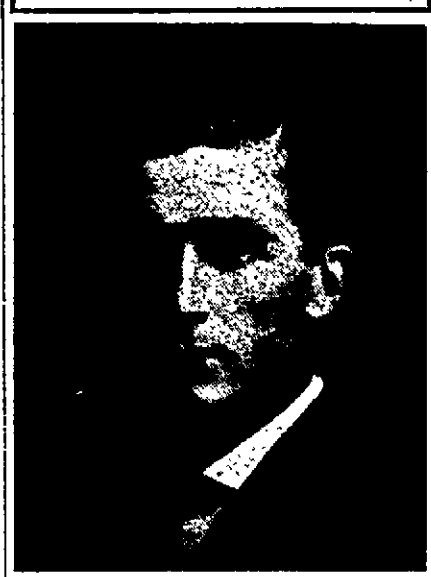

After graduating from Chicago, Catlin went to the University of Iowa where he directed football in 1906-1907 and 1908. While at Iowa he developed the Iowa shift, one of the most spectacular and effective football formations ever seen and he brought the play to Lawrence when he came in 1909 to take charge of the team.

COACHED GREAT TEAM

Catlin developed some great football teams at Lawrence. Four successive years he won the championship, then he skipped a few years and in 1918 he capped another title. Mr. Catlin left coaching in 1918 and was succeeded by "Doc" Eber who remained one year and was succeeded by H. D. McChesney. Buck became head coach in 1923.

Catlin's return to coaching was pleasing to a host of Lawrence graduates who are glad to see the veteran mentor back in the harness. Lawrence has had good football teams since Catlin left. McChesney developed some state champions—but Catlin and Lawrence are intimately associated in the minds of many Lawrence followers. Catlin's driving style of coaching, his positive methods and his personality have made him famous all over the midwest as a football teacher.

Smith Signs Eddie Stumpf As Backstop

Eddie Stumpf, veteran backstop and manager of the former Kaukauna State league club, has been signed up by David Smith, director of the Papermakers, to replace Babiness who has been released. This step was taken, not because of any lack of ability on the part of Babiness, but rather because Stumpf is a well-known character and has a large following in this part of the country.

Babiness was one of the best backstops the State league has known for a long time, and saved several titles for the Papermakers by starting batting rallies when they were most needed. None of Stumpf's benders have escaped his padded mitt, and hostile basemen have learned to fear his quick eye and ready whip when they were trying to steal.

Stumpf's ability as a catcher and craftiness as a diamond star are known to all State league fans. He has been with Milwaukee and joined the McGilligan circuit three years ago, where he has played ever since. He will be a valuable addition to the Appleton club, and when the Papermakers face Buster Braun and the rest of Billy Liebel's aggregation at Sheboygan on Sunday they will stand a better show than usual of adding another victory to their list.

ROD AND REEL
M. J. V. POSE

HINTS FOR ANGLERS

Fish should be killed before removing bugs, flies or lures from their mouths, especially trout, as taking a bug or fly from a fish's mouth while alive usually tears him to pieces more than anything else. Then again there's less chance of losing a fish if it is killed before removing from a hook.

Don't try to lift a fish out of water—that is, a good sized one—net him and if you don't happen to have a net with you play him out on land, you can safely pick him up securing a firm hold of the fish under the gills with your hand while he is in the water. Lifting fish out of water with the rod usually plays havoc with it and once it becomes set a rod is almost useless in fly casting.

Minnows are easily obtained by the use of mosquito netting. Make a bag 3 feet long and 2 feet wide. Cut a small limb from a tree and bend it in a half loop in the mouth of bag, scoop the minnows into this as you need them. A net of this kind is easy to carry as it rolls up into a very small packet and can be carried in the pocket.

A pound and a half trout is equal in weight to ten seven-inch trout and ten seven-inch trout will have produced one million more trout by the time they reach the weight of one and a half pounds.

Do you know Baseball?
by Billy Evans

QUESTIONS
1. Runner slides into second base, beating the catcher's throw easily. The base is torn from its anchor and, after player has stopped sliding, base is a foot away from him. Fielder touches him with the ball before he can regain possession of base. Is runner out or safe?—W. H. B.
2. Runner slides into second base ahead of the catcher's throw. He overslides the base, however, and before he can get back is touched by the fielder and ruled out. Is the runner credited with a stolen base?—G. J. R.
3. Pitching in the semi-professional ranks I have had excellent success with the use of the spitball. Do you think it advisable to discontinue this delivery if I desire to make the majors? Is there a possibility that the major leagues may in the near future again legalize the spitball?—F. K. H.

ANSWERS
1. The runner should be ruled safe. Bases are supposed to be stationary. If runner beat throw and then had bag break loose from its anchor, he should not be held responsible and compelled to follow the bag. He's safe.
2. In the case cited runner is not credited with a stolen base, even though he beat catcher's throw, being out as a result of over sliding. He never really was the occupant of the bag.
3. I do not believe majors will ever again legalize spitball. If the major leagues is your goal, would suggest you discontinue use of spitball.

Appleton And Indians Stage Close Race For Third Place In Field

Leopold of Neenah-Menasha
Leads McGilligan Loop While
E. Weisgerber Tops List of Papermakers.

Appleton and Oshkosh were crowding each other closely for fielding honors when the State league closed the first half of its season, while Menasha led the loop and Sheboygan trailed on the heels of the Twins in second place. Fond du Lac and Green Bay followed between Appleton and the lowly Electric city club. The league leaders, Falls have an average of .558, Sheboygan .548, Oshkosh .537 and Appleton .536. Kaukauna has committed 41 errors hitherto and was fielding .896 when the Kromer spoke fell out of the wheel.

Eddie Weisgerber is the only one of the Appleton regulars who boasts a perfect average. Leopold of Menasha leads the league with a record of 101 put outs 4 assists and no errors. Babiness of Appleton committed one error during his sojourn with the club, as did Harry Sylvester also. Recent games have raised the averages of Appleton players considerably as a comparison of monthly sheets shows.

STRENGTHENED BARBERS CHALLENGE LARK LEAGUE

The Barbers' baseball team which has lately added several new players, offers to play any team of the Lark Twilight league on a date to be determined by the two teams. The members have been practicing almost daily and claim to have a team that will give a good account of itself.

FINAL STANDINGS
W	L	Pct.
Jalbirds	7	2 .778
Tigers	7	2 .778
Cardinals	7	2 .778
Pikes Peaks	4	5 .444
Post-Crescent	2	6 .250
Barnstormers	0	7 .000

WEEK'S RESULTS
Jalbirds 12, Tigers 4.
Cardinals 7, Pikes Peaks 6.

Boys Baseball league organized under the auspices of the Appleton Y. M. C. A. early in June closed its 1924 schedule with the final two-game series Monday with three teams tied for first place. In their final contest, the Fourth Ward Tigers who had been doped to walk off with the pennant suffered a bad beating at the hands of the Jalbirds, 12 to 4, who thereby established a third of a claim on the top of the ladder. The Cardinals are the third member of the first division, reaching that position by defeating the Pikes Peaks, 7 to 6, in a fast close tilt at Erb park.

PLAYERS LEAVE CITY

Due to the large proportion of boys in the league who are leaving for the Sturgeon Bay cherry pickers camps this week, the schedule was shifted to permit a finish before the teams should be entirely disrupted. The triple tie was entirely unexpected, and a meeting has been called for Friday evening at the Y. M. C. A. to decide whether the tie should be played off at the end of the cherry picking or allowed to stand until next year.

The league was formed late in spring under the leadership of James E. Dennison, boys secretary of the Y. M. C. A. At an early meeting of the board of directors composed of two boys from each team, Harry Parton of the Employed Boys Brotherhood was elected president and since his inauguration he and his assistants conducted practically all of the business of the league in a very efficient manner. About midway of the season a baseball night was staged in the Y. M. C. A. and under the direction of Mr. Dennison and the league president, members of the teams enjoyed all forms of sports in the gymnasium and wound up with a swim.

DALE BASEBALL TEAM PLAYS AT GREENVILLE

Greenville Sunday afternoon will attempt to make it two in a row against Dale when the latter organization invades Greenville for a return game. The Greenville baseball team has won five games in seven starts thus far and Dale looked to the fast club, 12 to 8, on its own diamond.

Nixon, star Greenville hurler, will be on the mound Sunday, and the Grangers expect an easy victory.

COUNTY SCHOOL BOARDS MEET HERE IN AUGUST

The annual convention of school boards of Outagamie county will be held at Lawrence memorial hall Thursday, August 28. The program will be announced early next month.

AMERICANS MAKE GOOD SHOWING IN OLYMPIC EVENTS

United States Athletes Gain
More Points in Thursday's Competition

Paris — With a brilliant all round showing on the various Olympic half-days, the United States today captured the rowing crown after a series of seven sensational finals at Argenteuil, took a big lead in the swimming competition at Les Tourelles and remained in the fight for all five tennis titles on the Colombes courts.

In addition, the boxers continued their conquering march, with four straight victories to their credit in the afternoon and two in the evening. The rowing championship went to the United States, which scored a point margin over Switzerland, Yale's spectacular eight oared victory and the double sculls triumph of Jack Kelly and Paul Costello, were the high spots, while at the nets, Miss Helen Willis, the American champion, and Vincent Richards led the list of four American victories, the former defeating her rival, Mrs. Molla Malory, and Richards taking the measure of the Frenchman, La Coste. Two American entries, however, Mrs. Jessie and R. Norris Williams, fell by the wayside.

Boys Loop Ends Season With 3 Claiming Flag

margins almost from the start and finally gave up.

PITCHERS SHOW PROMISE

Sam Wolf of the Tigers and Floyd Reek of the Jalbirds pitched their teams to victory. Both showed real pitching ability, and in a few years should be valuable assets to more mature teams.

The Pikes Peaks, headed by Mike King, got off to a good start, and managed to cop fourth place.

While first year problems often were difficult to solve the league surmounted all difficulties and the experience gained this season will improve the work of the various teams greatly next year. In all probability a full summer schedule will be drawn up in 1925, and full records kept of all games. While little support was given the players by fans, they themselves played with great enjoyment, and the league is the result of a long step forward.

CARDS WHITEWASH BRAVES AS HAINES HURLS WAY TO FAME

Giants, Lose Ground in National
When Pittsburg Wins, 4 to
3, in 13 Innings

When Jess Haines turned back the Boston Braves without a hit or a run and beat them 5 to 0, he not only carved a monument for himself in baseball's immortal hall of fame, but he boosted the Cardinals to last place in the National league into a tie with Boston for sixth place. Haines' feat, while not perfect, was outstanding enough to gain him an envious place in baseball's history. Not since 1876, the year the National league sprang into existence, has a St. Louis National league twirler turned in a no-hit, no-run game. In this instance George Washington Bradley, now a member of General Butler's Philadelphia force of police guardians twirled the St. Louis club to a 2 to 0 victory over the Hartford, Conn., Nationals allowing them neither hit nor run.

The Giants leaders in the National league parade, lost a bit of ground Thursday when Pittsburg walked away with a 4 to 3 verdict in the 13 innings, Chicago gaining a full game by defeating Philadelphia, 3 to 2. Cincinnati pulled the Brooklyn Dodgers out of third place by defeating them, 10 to 8, in a slug

U. S. SEEKS SLEUTHS FOR ITS WAR ON NARCOTICS

In an effort to suppress the illicit traffic in narcotic drugs, the federal force of investigators will be increased by 125 as soon as qualified men are available for appointment. Herman J. Frank, secretary of the local civil service commission, said Thursday.

Applications for the position of agent for employment under the Harrison narcotic act will be received by the commission until July 22. Applicants must have had at least six months' experience in the investigation of major criminal activities requiring the securing of evidence in cases involving violations of criminal laws in military regulations. Further details may be obtained from Mr. Frank at the local postoffice.

Congress has recognized the narcotic division is numerically inadequate to deal effectively with the illicit traffic in drugs and has increased the appropriation to provide for 125 new men. This will bring the investigating force to 300.

BETTER MEATS

"—and a bowl of milk"

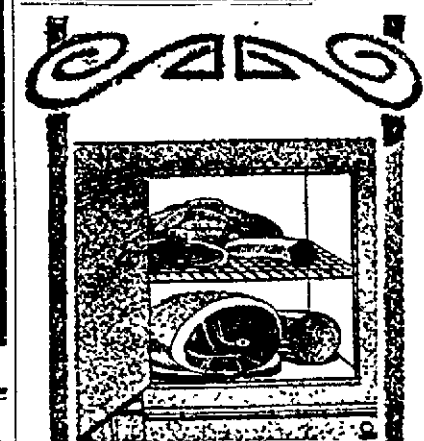

QUALITY Crackers and "liquid health" make a wonderful meal, as they contain the principal life giving elements that food scientists like to talk about.

Never mind their big words—just put in your order and draw up to the table.

Quality Crackers are baked according to the same high standards that prevail in the baking of Quality Cookies; probably that's why more than 10 million Quality Ideal Soda Crackers are eaten each month in the state of Wisconsin.

AUTOISTS WOULD BE LOST SHEEP WITHOUT ACCOMMODATING COP

Patrolman Bliss Carnes, who is on day traffic duty this week at College-ave and Oneida-st thinks he'll shed his star and wear the familiar convention time button. "Ask me, I live here."

Complying with the order of Capt. P. J. Vaughn, acting chief, to keep a record of the requests for information given at that corner, Officer Carnes found that 113 tourists stopped to ask directions and there were 59 inquiries of various kinds from local people.

This barrage of questions was shot at the patrolman during the period from 8 o'clock in the morning to 6 o'clock in the evening, deducting an hour and a half at noon.

Record will be kept for several days, showing the value of having a uniformed officer at the corner even though the arterial signs take care of most of the traffic regulation.

REILLY SAYS HE ISN'T CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR

Fond du Lac—"I am out of politics," M. K. Reilly declared Wednesday, denying that he is a candidate for governor or attorney general, or that he is suggesting candidates to fill the Democratic state ticket.

Newspaper reports had Mr. Reilly stated as a possible next attorney general of Wisconsin. Tuesday rumor had it that the local Democrat would be in the field for the governor's chair.

"I have had my fill of politics," he said. "But I am pleased that Judge Martin Luck of Beaver Dam has announced himself as a Democratic candidate for governor. He will make a fine candidate."

FALLING PITCHFORK PIERCES MAN'S LUNG

The lower left lung and left kidney were punctured by the fork which entered Isaac's back just below the shoulders. Two ribs were broken where the prong emerged from the body in front.

SHERIFF ON TRAIL OF CHECK FORGER

In his attempt to locate James H. Stefens, the Bridgeport, Conn., bridegroom who spent his honeymoon at Dale and who was wanted by Wisconsin Bankers association of Milwaukee for passing worthless checks, Sheriff Otto Zuehlke learned Thursday afternoon that he purchased railroad transportation to Neenah for himself and bride, but went on to Chicago, where he was to attend a national league baseball game. He learned further that while in Chicago he was to make his headquarters at 1117 Columbia-ave. This information was forwarded to the chief detective of the bankers association.

FATHER IS GIVEN CUSTODY OF CHILD

Care and custody of Dorothy H. Koch, has been transferred from the mother, Viola M. Koch, to the father, Frank F. Koch, by an agreement signed in court and approved by Henry Kreiss, divorce counsel.

The agreement provides for the discontinuance of alimony, but the father is given the right to visit the child. It is mutually agreed, however, that she is not to interfere with the father in his care and maintenance.

Mrs. Fred Jentz, 1221 College-ave, returned Thursday from Milwaukee, where she attended the funeral of a relative.

CITY HAS $140,000 LEFT TO PAY BILLS FOR NEXT 6 MONTHS

Fund Will Be Exhausted in October If Average Expense Is Maintained

The general fund of the city of Appleton, from which general operating expenses of the city are paid, was decreased by $52,921 during the month of June, leaving a balance of $182,356.22, according to the monthly report of city finance prepared by E. L. Williams, city clerk, and submitted to the common council. Against this balance of $182,356.22 actual cash on hand, there are outstanding orders aggregating about $40,000, leaving approximately $140,000 in the general fund with which to pay general city expenses for the remainder of the month of June.

$37,500 PER MONTH
Total city expenditures for all purposes, except sinking fund, Cherry-st bridge and junior high schools, aggregated $225,508 for six months, or an average of $37,500 a month. If this average is maintained for the remainder of the year, the city will be required to borrow money by the end of October.

Total expenditures for the month of June, as reported by the city clerk, were $107,228, which included $71,647 for junior high schools and $51,400 for bridge improvement. The bridge fund on June 30 contained $96,293.35, while in the junior high school fund there was $287,258.91.

FAIR FUND LIMITS
Several of the items in the estimated budget prepared before the tax levy was fixed last year are dangerously near the breaking point. Up to June 30 the council had appropriated $40,599.56 for waterworks advance and the total estimate for that work for 1924 was $14,000. Less than $4,000 remains for waterworks extension the remaining six months of the year. Considerably over half of the $30,000 estimated cost of street repair and maintenance has been spent and six months of year remain. The first six months of the year saw an expenditure of $21,988 for street cleaning and the total estimate was $25,000, leaving a little more than $3,000 to finish the year. The June expenditure for street cleaning was $1,884 and if the average is maintained, the fund will be exhausted before the end of August. The June expenditure for street cleaning was approximately $1,000 less than the previous month.

OWE FOR STREET OIL
The estimate for street equipment was overrun when June expenditures of $3,735 were reported, making a total of $7,949 as compared with an estimate of $5,000 for that item. The budget estimates included an item of $9,000 for street oiling of which only $892 has been spent, but the cost of the oiling program is hardly scratched by that expenditure. It is probable the entire $9,000 will be expended when the street oiling program is completed.

Not a cent was spent for sewer improvement in June and the total expenditure for the year for that item was only $280 as compared with an estimate of $15,500 for the work. That means there has been practically no sewer construction paid for this year and if there are many new sewers there will be a rapid drain on the city's funds.

NEW SIDEWALKS
Last fall the council estimated the cost of new sidewalks at $3,000 but thus far only $255 was spent and more than half of the expenditure was in June.

Expenditures under the head of mayor and alderman aggregated $2,294 for the month of June, making a total expenditure of $5,435 for that purpose, as against an estimate of $5,000 for the entire year. City hall expenses mounted to $2,730 at the end of June and about $4,000 worth of coal and operating expenses for the remaining six months of the year are to come from the total estimate of $7,000.

The following table shows expenditures in June and the total expenditures for the first six months of the year:

THIS CORN HASN'T BEEN RETARDED BY WEATHER

John Hoerning, caretaker at Jones park, has a patch of corn near his residence, corner of Superior and Bruce sts that is attracting a great deal of attention. It covers a vacant lot and is two feet high. It was planted May 30, and Mr. Hoerning is unable to explain its rapid growth unless it was due to plowing under the stalks of last year's crop, as he made use of no other fertilizer.

Diabetes Is Less Deadly In Wisconsin

Wisconsin is one of thirty-two states which showed a lower diabetes death rate among its wage-earning population in 1923 than the rate among the same group throughout the United States. This fact was ascertained from the death claims for 1923 of the 13,000,000 with industrial policyholders of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company. These men and women comprise about one-fourth of the entire industrial population of the United States and Canada.

The diabetes death rate for this industrial group, according to the company's mortality experience, was 16.9 per 100,000 persons insured. Wisconsin's rate from this disease was 16.4. The company's latest statistical bulletin calls attention to the marked decline in deaths from diabetes throughout 1923 and the first four months of 1924, notwithstanding the continuous rise which had been recorded in the three years prior to 1923. It states: "During the first four months of 1924 the diabetes death rate has shown a further reduction over the corresponding period of 1923. These reductions have followed the beginning of the more or less general use of insulin. So far at least, in 1924, the drop is accentuated as the use of insulin increases, but this must not be considered as the effect of the use of insulin without further proof."
